Racial, cultural and socio-economic diversity are current realities in Minneapolis-St. Paul and other cities in the region. A growing number of Christian leaders recognize that the Church and the gospel message play a vital role in uniting a fragmented society and overcoming the issues that divide us.

Coming Together 2008 brings together experienced practitioners to give churches Biblical inspiration and practical skills for leading in multicultural settings. Interactive workshops will be led by local pastors of multicultural/multiracial congregations, and two national leaders will lead keynote sessions.
